

Canine Science Forum
5-9 July 2008
Budapest, Hungary

The main aim of

Canine Science Forum

is to utilize science as a source of knowledge to promote the emergence of an interdisciplinary field of canine biology

Invited talks:

Robert Wayne, University of California, Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology

James Serpell, University of Pennsylvania, Center for the Interaction of Animals and Society

József Topál, HAS, Institute for Psychological Researches; Eötvös University, Department of Ethology

Heidi Parker, National Human Genome Research Institute, National Institutes of Health

Jane Packard, Texas A & M University, Department of Wildlife & Fisheries Sciences

Sabine Nowak, Polish Academy of Sciences, Mammal Research Institute

Speakers at the Social Events:

Marc Bekoff, University of Colorado

Ray Coppinger, Hampshire College

Vilmos Csányi, Eötvös University, Department of Ethology

5-9 July 2008

Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest, Hungary

<http://csf2008.elte.hu>

Oral presentations and posters are invited!

Deadline: 15 March, 2008

